162 Student posters: Reservations about the usability of airline web sites   ◼

Paula Selvidge
May 1999 CHI '99 extended abstracts on Human factors in computing systems

Full text available: 📄 pdf(194.37 KB)   Additional Information: full citation, abstract, references

Designing effective and usable web sites is important to survival in the e-commerce market. The focus of this study was to identify general usability issues on major airline web sites. Seven web sites were compared on the task of locating flight and fare information. Finding flight information across the web sites was a difficult task for many users in this study. Numerous usability issues were identified including problems with logon procedures, non-descriptive and redundant links, round-trip o ...

Full text available: 📄 pdf(747.80 KB)   Additional Information: full citation, abstract, references, citings, index terms, review

The ISO MPEG committee, after successful completion of the MPEG-1 and the MPEG-2 standards is currently working on MPEG-4, the third MPEG standard. Originally, MPEG-4 was conceived to be a standard for coding of limited complexity audio-visual scenes at very low bit-rates; however, in July 1994, its scope was expanded to include coding of scenes as a collection of individual audio-visual objects and enabling a range of advanced functionalities not supported by other standards. One of the ke ...

We consider the privacy of personal information on the World Wide Web, emphasizing a concept of privacy as an aspect of social relationships between individuals. We make three contributions to understanding the right to privacy on the Web: (1) we highlight the role of informed consent as an important consideration for privacy, (2) we identify conditions under which the collection and centralization of personal information can be ethically justified, and (3) we offer an interpretation of a "reaso ...
